Original publisher: Golden, Colo. : National Renewable Energy Laboratory, 2009 OCLC Number: (OCOLOC)472473880 Subject: Biomass -- Kansas -- Greensburg. Excerpt: . . . in the same market as wood pellets, they would have to sell at a lower price to compete with both wood pellets and natural gas. Biomass pellets are likely to compete very favorably with propane, fuel oil, commercial natural gas rates and electricity, but so will wood pellets. Any entrepreneur who seeks to develop a biomass pelletization facility in the Greensburg Pratt region should be prepared to spend considerable time and effort on educating potential consumers and developing the market. Densification Options We evaluated three potential densified products that could be made from local biomass: pellets, briquettes, and bripelets. All three options represent commercial technologies that would create viable market products, and all three can be used in commercial boiler systems to produce heat, power, or combined heat and power. We estimate that a 24,000-ton-per-year plant is the minimum size that should be built to take advantage of economies of scale, labor requirements, and infrastructure. It may be possible, however, to start...
