This work, the Clean Water Lifesong, is an 11-minute composition for unaccompanied SATB choir. What is a lifesong ? In general, a lifesong is a 4-movement secular choral work that gives choral composers a canvas on which to express themselves. It is meant to serve as a secular alternative to the choral Mass. But a choral Mass has a specific text (such as Kyrie Eleison) that the composer must set to music. The lifesong has no such text. Instead it has four prescribed titles for its four movements. The composer s challenge is to use these titles to create some kind of meaningful, over-arching narrative that is worthy of performance. The titles to the 4 movements of this (and all) lifesongs are: 1. Credo (meaning I believe) 2. Abundance 3. Scarcity 4. Go and Do As with the Mass, the lifesong may be scored for additional instruments or simply stand as an acappella work (for voice alone). Secretary Michael has used these 4 titles to create a very short (at least on the scale of Masses) work about clean water, waterborne diseases, and the need for making water supplies safe throughout the world. As with all Secretary Michael works, this composition has been put into the public domain and may be freely copied and performed.
